The Board of Health Holds a Meeting.

REMOVAL OF THE CEMETERIES.

Indian Trouble Reported at Indio. Other Items of More Than Ordinary Interest.

The Board of Health met last night, Drs. J. H. Davisson, M. Hagan, Jos. Kurtz, Mr. E. T. Wright and Health Officer Dr. McGowan present. Mayor Hazard announced his inability to be in attendance early in the evening, and Clerk Robinson failed to appear at the appointed hour, but after the board and reporters had waited in the corridor for thirty minutes, the secretary was summoned by telephone and an entrance was effected into the Mayor's office. Dr. M. Hagan was elected temporary chairman and the meeting was called to order.

R. Y. McBride's demand for $30.50, which had been referred to the board by the Council, was approved.

Two demands were also received through the Council from John Farrell, amounting to $136, for removing and burying dead animals during the months of December and January last. The matter provoked a good deal of discussion, and it being understood that the fees for this purpose should have been collected from the persons to whom the animals belonged, the bills were returned to Farrell for correction.

The garbage contract of J. F. Donegan, which was in the hands of the Mayor for signature, was read by Clerk Robinson for the benefit of the board; and also provoked a lengthy discussion, but as the matter was not in the hands of the board no action was taken, although it was generally regretted that the board could not recommend the interpolating of a clause embodying the removal of dead animals in the contract, to take effect when Farrell's contract expired.

The petition of H. Marteen et al., calling the attention of the board to a pool of water on Bellevue avenue and New High streets, which had seeped from the old city cemetery on the south side of Bellevue avenue between Castelar and Rosas streets, and was a menace to the public health, was read. After a lengthy discussion, the matter was referred to the Council with a recommendation that an ordinance be drawn up to prevent further burials in the cemetery, as the only means of abating the nuisance.

The Health Officer stated that he had been asked by the Odd Fellows to issue a general permit allowing them to remove bodies from the cemetery of the organization at Sand and Castelar streets to the new one on Stevenson avenue, Boyle Heights. The matter was discussed at some length and finally referred to the Health Officer, with power to act as he should deem best in his discretion.

In response to a communication from the Salt Lake Medical Society asking for a copy of the laws regulating the sanitary condition of the city, for the purpose of framing laws for their own city, on motion of Dr. Kurtz, the board requested the City Clerk to furnish the Health Officer with a copy of the city charter, to be forwarded to Salt Lake.

The Health Officer brought up the matter of the death of Mrs. L. F. Alauzet, at No. 122 Aliso street, on the 3d instant, and suggested that it was the duty of the board to request the Council to pass an ordinance requiring the registration of midwives. On motion of Dr. Kurtz, he was instructed to frame such an ordinance as he thought would cover his suggestion.

Dr. Kurtz said that in the matter of the nuisance being maintained by the Chinese at the Plaza, he thought that if it was obligatory on white people to keep clean, it should also be so with Chinese; and, after talking the matter over, the Health Officer was urged to abate the nuisance.

Dr. McGowan said that the Council had by the retrenchment ordinance curtailed his force by two men, and as all four of his inspectors were good men and conscientious workers, he did not care to take the responsibility of dropping any of them. They were appointed by the board, and should be removed by it. Dr. Kurtz moved that W. R. Robbins and S. B. Stiles be discharged, but Dr. Davisson said that he was more inclined to retain men whose families were dependent upon them, and moved to discharge Richard Carter and Stiles. On the roll being called the motion was lost on a vote, and Dr. Kurtz having renewed his motion it was carried by a vote of 3 to 1.

The Health Officer filed his annual report, and the board adjourned.

INDIAN TROUBLES.

A Frenchman Ordered to Leave His Location.

Mr. Geo. W. Durbrow, who is visiting the city, received the following telegram from Indio:

"Cabazon and a delegation of Indians met a Frenchman, and gave him two days in which to leave. The Frenchman says the Indians burned one wagon for him. No other damage was done the Frenchman here."

It appears that the Indians have been living several miles from Indio, on Government land which has not been set aside as an Indian reservation. The Frenchman settled on a portion of the land claimed by the Indians, and trouble began, with the result stated in the telegram.

OBJECTIONABLE TENANTS.

A Building Spoiled by a Chinese Lottery Game.

About 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon Detective Auble arrested Ah Sing for selling lottery tickets at No. 5 Arcadia street. The Chinaman was taken to the station and registered, but was released from custody by depositing the sum of $40 to ensure his appearance in court this afternoon. R. M. Baker, the owner of the property in which the lottery game was being played, accompanied the detective at the time of the arrest, and was much disgusted at the condition in which he found the place. The windows had been knocked out and latticed, the doors all barricaded and manipulated, so that only those known to the Chinamen inside could be admitted by means of a system of strings and pulleys, and a partition had been run up on the inside. A large hole had been cut in the flooring, in order to afford the wily heathens with a means of egress through the basement when threatened with arrest, and altogether the place was in a state of demoralization. Mr. Baker stated to a HERALD reporter who interviewed him on the subject, that he had nothing to do with the Chinese gamblers, as he had rented his property on a ten years' lease to Tom Kelly, D. Pickett and J. Frankenfield. The lease had been running for about six years, and as he had offered them a large sum of money for it some time ago, which they would not then accept, he believed that they were endeavoring to bring him to terms by subletting the property to these Chinese gamblers. Personally he had the greatest objection to Chinamen as tenants, and he had not drawn any revenue from his Sanchez street property for years past, simply because he refused to allow them to occupy it.

LENTEN SEASON.

Regulations Issued by Archbishop Riordan.

The following regulations for Lent have been issued by Archbishop Riordan, of the Catholic Church:

All the faithful who have completed their twenty-first year are, unless legitimately dispensed, bound to observe the fast of Lent.

All days of Lent, Sundays excepted, are fast days of obligation on one meal.

By dispensation granted August 3, 1887, for ten years, flesh meat is allowed at the principal meal of all days on Lent except Wednesdays, Fridays, Ember Saturday and the Saturday of holy week.

The use of flesh meat and fish is forbidden at the same meal, even on Sundays.

At the collation it is permitted to use bread, all kinds of fruit, vegetables and fish, and by dispensation granted February 9, 1887, for ten years, the use of butter, cheese, milk and eggs is also permitted.

The use of lard is permitted in preparing food on all days throughout the year.

When the principal meal cannot be taken at midday it may be taken in the evening, and the collation in the morning.

All persons under 21 years or over 60 years of age, those who are engaged in hard labor, the sick and convalescent, and those who cannot fast without injury to their health, are exempt from the obligation of fasting.

Those who are not bound to fast may use flesh meat more than once each day on which its use is permitted.

Those who have any reasonable doubt as to their obligation to fast or abstain should consult their confessor.

The time for fulfilling the precept of Easter communion extends in the archdiocese from the first Sunday in Lent to the end of the octave of Pentecost.

The rectors of the diocese are requested to have Lenten devotions in their churches on Wednesday, Friday and Sunday evenings of each week.

HE TACKLED SULLIVAN.

How C. D. Curtis Gave a Boxing Lesson.

C. D. Curtis, of Lamanda Park, uncle of Charlie Curtis, for whose murder Philip Engel is being tried, once owned a candle factory in Boston. One day he found in a barrel in the yard a set of boxing gloves, and after asking several of the men which of them was wasting his time with them, one of them said they belonged to "John." Just then a big sixteen-year-old boy came into the yard, and Curtis pointing to the gloves, said: "John, are those yours? What are you doing with those things?"

"Oh," said John, "I sometimes amuse myself trying to box with the boys."

Curtis thought he was a scientific man himself, and determined to give the boy a good drubbing, so he said.

"All right, I will give you a short lesson; put on the gloves."

On they went, and the big boy "faked" around awhile, seeming intent on nothing so much as to keep away from the "boss;" but all at once he jumped at Curtis, in an unguarded moment, and landed a righthander square on the neck of the boss, which sent him to grass. This was repeated half a dozen times, and for a week when Curtis went up or down stairs he had to hold his head hard in both hands to keep it from flying to pieces.

"John" was none other than Boston's pride, John L. Sullivan.

AMUSEMENTS.

The Cleveland Minstrels continue to draw good houses at the Grand. They will give a matinee tomorrow and an extra performance Sunday night.

At the Los Angeles theater last night the Hyer Sisters gave their old-time play, Out of Bondage. There was a rather small house. The performance will be repeated tonight.

On Sunday night at this house Mr. Grismer and his company will produce Forgiven, a play by Mr. Grismer himself. It will be a grand benefit to the Elks.

The Judson Boys.

The two little Judson boys, Lucius E. and Albert A., were yesterday arrested on complaint of their father, Lucius O. Judson, and taken before City Justice Austin on the charge of having on the 19th inst., and for two months prior thereto, wandered about without proper guardianship, they being minors and under the age of 16 years. Justice Austin, on learning that their father had, after taking them from the hands of Chief Glass some time ago, turned them loose upon the world at the nearest street corner, remanded them to jail until this afternoon, when he proposes to investigate the matter to the bottom.

Held to Answer.

H. E. Whitesides, the one-armed night-caller at the San Fernando-street depot, who was charged with having assaulted a brakeman named C. H. Whittlesea with a knife on the morning of the 11th inst., with intent to commit murder, appeared for examination before City Justice Lockwood yesterday and was held to answer to the charge in the Superior Court under bonds in the sum of $1,500.

WATER RATES.

The Companies Do Not Desire a Decrease.

AN INTERESTING ARGUMENT.

A Six Per Cent. Income on the Investment is Wanted by the Directors.

The committee of the Council on water rates met yesterday morning, Messrs. Summerland, McLain and Bonsall present, together with the following representatives of the water companies: W. H. Perry and Wm. Caswell, of the Los Angeles City Water Company; C. J. Richards, of the East Side Water Company; E. Galbraith, of the West End Board of Trade; Col. C. E. Dailey and Messrs. Peter Nies, Merriman, Moss and others.

The session was devoted to the discussion as to whether the rates should be lowered or kept where they are at present.

Mr. Perry said he was willing to abide by any action of the company that was equitable and reasonable. He earnestly protested against any schedule which would prevent the Los Angeles City Water Company from earning less than six per cent. per year on their investment. He declared that the company was not getting at the present time 4½ per cent. It was a popular delusion, he said, that the water company was amassing wealth. The stockholders this year would have to reach into their pockets for $125,000. It would take five years for them to get even with their losses caused by the late floods. He would be willing to stand the rates fixed for the Spring Valley Water Company in San Francisco. As for a meter rate the consumers would never stand it. It costs too much for meters which on account of corrosion have to be replaced every year or two. There was a great wastage of domestic water, he said, in Los Angeles. As an instance of the waste, he stated that in June 2, 3 and 4, 1886, Mr. Culver had carefully gauged the amount passing through the mains. He found that 3,000,000 gallons daily passed through. In the following August the people were taking 8,000,000 gallons daily. The waste of water had compelled the company to double their conduit capacity. He thought that it should be understood that if the company's contract with the city was impaired the city would lose its option on the old water works. Not a vestage of them was left, yet the option was worth $150,000. It could be sold for that sum.

In answer to a question as to whether the waste which was alleged was not caused by an increased population, Mr. Perry said that the population had not doubled in four years.

Mr. Galbraith said he favored giving the company rates that would be just to them, but he wanted the rates made reasonable for the consumers. The people ought not to pay extortionate rates in order that the stockholders might be guaranteed dividends of six per cent. It was easy enough to prepare hocus pocus figures to show a big investment. The gentlemen who put their money into water stock took chances just as they would in any other form of investment. Other men made investments and were glad to get three per cent.

Mr. Perry said that he would sell all of his water stock for 25 per cent. less than its estimated value.

C. J. Richards said his company, the East Side Water Company, operated twelve miles of pipe. They had not received one dollar in dividends. They could not afford to pay even a bookkeeper. Their entire force of employees consisted of one man on the pumps and one man to collect the bills. They had developed their own water. They simply wanted to be allowed to keep their money invested. If the rates to be fixed were not to be reasonable they must go out of business.

In answer to an inquiry as to what a reasonable water meter rate was, Mr. Richards said he thought 50 cents per 1,000 gallons was about right.

Mr. Niles said he had used a meter, and 50 cents was too much. He would rather pay $4 a month than be compelled to pay 50 cents a 1,000 gallons.

Col. Dailey remarked that the representatives of the water companies had invested their money for profit. They had been increasing their plant all the time. And why? Because of the increasing demand for their water, and the prospect thus opened for greater profits. He said he understood a new company was seeking a water franchise because they knew there was a profit in the business. He thought the city should own its own water works.

M. L. Wicks said that Stockton owned her water works, and the average charge to the consumers was $30 per annum. The Citizens Water Company had 2,600 consumers. The collections averaged less than $2 a month each. He did not agree with Mr. Perry that the companies here could deliver water at the same rate as is charged in San Francisco. He had paid $9,460 last year for the oil used in fuel for his boilers. He could stand the rate charged in Oakland or in Sacramento, where the water works are owned by the city. It was useless to say that a small business could be managed as economically as a large one. He would gladly see the rates scheduled according to the size of the houses. The superficial floor surface would be nearly as just a basis as could be got. As for sprinkling lawns, the proper basis should be the superficial area and not the foot frontage. Mr. Wicks said he had $305,000 invested in his plant, not including Mr. Beaudry's losses.

After some few minutes spent in further argument, the committee adjourned until 10 o'clock this morning.

THE ORANGE MARKET.

Large Shipments from Europe. Prices Affected.

Shipments of oranges from the Coast began in good earnest a little after the month of January, and continued for about weeks, until more than one-fourth of three the total crop had been sent out of the State. Riverside, it is said, has shipped nearly half of its crop.

The chances are that shipments will be very light for the next few weeks. The Eastern market has been considerably weakened by the sudden importation of an immense quantity of oranges from the Mediterranean countries. In one week there was shipped into New York a larger quantity of oranges than the whole crop of California. The first pickings of the California crop are always under the disadvantage of being in competition with the Florida and the foreign crop, and nothing but their superior excellence saves them from being crowded out of the market. There is plenty of time for the eastern market to recover, and the second wave of shipments will probably come in for as good prices as were commanded by the first lot.

THE SCHOOL BONDS.

Mayor Hazard Refuses to Attach His Name to Them.

Visitors to the city hall yesterday noticed standing in the corridor a handsome burglar proof safe, and as it appeared as if headed for the City Treasurer's office the question arose as to what that official wanted with a safe when he had a steel vault with time locks. After a while it was rumored that the safe had been sent to the Treasurer by Mayor Hazard so that there could be no excuse that the vault was not burglar proof, for the refusal by the Treasurer to keep the city money there, instead of at several banks about the city.

Mayor Hazard, when asked about the safe, stated that he had ordered it sent to the City Treasurer's office for the purpose of storing the money to be derived by the sale of the $100,000 school bonds. He said that the vault without the safe was not fit to store the money, but with the safe, which it would take forty hours to drill through it would be better than any of the banks in the city. He further stated that the school bonds recently sold by the Council to the Southern California National Bank had been sent to him for signature, and he was not particularly desirous of placing another $100,000 among the various banks. He had investigated the matter of the city funds, and had found that $360,000 of the city money was kept by a number of banks which paid no interest. The city had an opportunity to loan all of its money at the rate of 4½ per cent. interest to the City Bank, but one of the stockholders of a bank in which a part of the $360,000 was deposited had stepped in and enjoined the city from obtaining an income from the interest, and he did not propose that these banks should get hold of any more of the city money and thus obtain funds with which to fight the city. For this reason he said he would refuse to sign the school bonds until he knew that the money derived from their sale was to go into the city vaults, or else be turned over to the city bank, where it would draw interest at the rate of 4½ per cent until used.

He said later in the day that he was determined not to sign the bonds until he was certain that the cash was to be turned over to the City Treasurer and that the bonds would not be merely turned over to the Southern California Bank and a certificate of deposit given in exchange, the bank thus having the use of the money free until needed by the city. He said that he had talked the matter over with City Treasurer Johnson, and had told him that it was not right and that he would not sign the bonds until he knew the money was to be kept in the vault at the city hall.

City Treasurer Johnson did not have much to say on the subject. He stated that he was afraid he and the Mayor could not agree if the Mayor expected to see the money in the safe before he signed the bonds. No banking institution would transact business in that way; turn over the money before the bonds were signed.

It was stated by several of the city officials that the Mayor had no choice in the matter, and that under the law he was forced to sign the bonds. Section 7, of the act, approved March 19th last, says "The said bonds shall be signed by the Executive of the municipality," was referred to as conclusive on the matter.

Mayor Hazard stated that the case might be carried into the courts, but he would not sign the bonds, except at the end of the suit, or when he was certain that the money would be kept in the vault or loaned out at interest.

The fight is becoming interesting and is the all-absorbing topic in city hall circles.

RAILROAD AFFAIRS.

Excursions Coming—Light Freight Shipments.

The excursion business is looking up and the prospect is that it will be fairly good through the rest of the season. The regular monthly excursion of the Raymond-Whitcomb Company will get in tomorrow. It consists of four well-filled sleepers An extra excursion under the same management will arrive about a week later.

General freight business on both the lines has been light this week. The orange shipments have fallen off considerably. About one-fourth of the crop has been shipped. There will be a lull in the work of supplying the eastern market until it has assimilated the quantity of fruit which has been received from this Coast and from the Mediterranean countries.

There will be about forty delegates to the Traffic Convention at Coronado next month, eighteen roads being represented. This is the first time that this organization has ever met in Southern California.

Richard Grey, the general traffic manager of the Southern Pacific, is in the city, staying at the Hollenbeck. He came down for the purpose of holding a conference with Mr. Crawley.

A train load of L. J. Rose's horses will go north tomorrow.

On February 22d the auditorium of the Chautauqua Literary and Scientific Circle at Redondo will be dedicated. Special excursion rates will be made by the Santa Fe.

A citizen of the East Side recently contributed to the Exponent an interesting letter with regard to the mineral wealth of the country through which the Utah Central extension will pass. In it he says: At the time I went over the route little was known of the mineral wealth of the country, but I saw enough to convince me that very rich deposits of gold, silver and iron lay hidden in the mountains, but a lack of communication with the outside world prevented any extensive prospecting. I crossed a range of mountains in November, 1883, and before I could return, snow fell to such a depth on the range that I had to remain until the next April before I could get out. During the long, cold winter I prospected considerable, and not only found what I believed to be rich silver deposits, but one of the richest coal fields ever discovered in this western country. If the Utah road comes to Los Angeles, I would like to take some of the Los Angeles capitalists to the place, that the wealth of that isolated valley might flow into Southern California. Coal could be laid down here for $5 or $6 a ton, and at that price manufacturers would be encouraged to locate in our midst. I am certain that $100,000 would be sufficient to open up mines that would be worth millions to California and those who would take hold of them.

THE CURTIS KILLING.

Mrs. Engle Tells How Her Husband Shot Her Brother.

In the trial of Phillip Engel for the murder of his brother-in-law, Charles Curtis, at Lamanda Park, on November 20th, last, nearly all day yesterday was taken up with the examination of Mrs. Engel, the wife of the defendant and the sister of the man who was killed. After she told her story in direct examination, the Deputy District Attorney kept her under cross-examination for a long time. Her position was a most trying one, standing as she did, between her dead brother and her living husband. Her story was in the main and substantially in detail as the HERALD prognosticated yesterday. The story of the spree after the marriage of the brother, the effort of Engel to get more wine, and his charging her with putting it into a vessel of vinegar were all narrated. Then Engel told he had lied to him, and that she could not read the Bible after doing so. He took the book and threw it into the yard, and she went to get it. He caught her by the sleeve of her dress tightly to prevent her doing so, but she said in a decided way that she would get it, and walked on, he not resisting her. As she rose from picking up the book her husband fell as if shot from a catapult at her feet. He fell on his back, and immediately Curtis jumped on him, both his knees being in the abdomen of Engel. He then grasped him by the throat with both hands and choked Engel until he was black in the face, his lower jaw fell open his mouth and his eyes protruded. Mrs. Engel tugged away at her brother until she succeeded in taking his left hand from her husband's throat, but he still held on by his right hand. Curtis then struck the woman a blow with his left hand and hurled her away from him. Then she called aloud for help. Curtis thereupon let go his hold, got up and walked away. Mrs. Curtis thought Engel was killed, but after a bit he revived, and she led him to the house. Engel said two or three times that he would kill Curtis. He asked for his shot gun, and went to the barn to get it; but she followed him and persuaded him to leave it where it was. They returned to the house, and Engel paced up and down the room. Mrs. Engel went in the next room, and a short time after she heard her husband say "There he comes." She saw an object shoot past the window in the gloaming, and went to the door of the room where her husband was. As she reached it her brother came in the door in the light of a lamp that streamed out of a pantry. At the same moment Engel crossed the room, coming from a bath-room door, with a rifle in his hand that was usually placed there. He crossed in front of her as she stood in the door. As Curtis came in he cried out, in loud and angry tones, "God, Phillip ——." She could not hear the rest of the sentence. Engel held the rifle in his right hand, with his hand close to the guard and trigger. Both Mrs. Engel and her husband called to Curtis, "Do not come in here." He paid no attention to the warning, but came straight towards Engel. His eyes were angry, and in a moment he was close up to the muzzle of the rifle. She heard no report, but she saw the flash of the fire, and both men fell to the floor. Curtis was dead before he could speak a syllable. Engel rose from the floor and went into another room, where the first words he said were: "I have shot him. I would shoot any man who choked me."

Mrs. Engel made a splendid witness. With the spirit of a Portia she sat with the nerve of a hero and told her terrible story. She appeared to stand between her dead brother and her living husband, and to try to mete out even-handed justice in her testimony as impartially as if she were not personally interested in the affair. Yet she was moved to the depths of her nature at many points in the recital. Her whole frame quivered as the tears rose to her eyes and choked her voice. She would resolutely overcome her emotion and go on with the story of the killing of her brother. In her cross-examination she gave the hardest testimony of any witness against her husband, although she was put on by the defense. Her statements that Engel said after the choking that he would kill Curtis, his going to the barn for the gun, his having the rifle ready for Curtis's return, and his statement after the killing that he had shot him and would shoot anyone who choked him, show motive, premeditation and malice in a very bad way.

Engel himself is the only material witness after his wife. His stay will be short. It will recite the same facts as Mrs. Engel told, and will go on to say that in Engel's opinion Curtis tried to kill him, that Curtis thought he had killed him, and that Engel's survival of the choking, he had returned to finish the job, and that Engel shot in self-defense.

Approaches to the West End.

The vexed question of approach to the hills west of the city seems to be of interest to a large portion of the resident and business population of the city. History is a standing evidence of the outcome of the western portion of every city. Also, all elevated portions of every large city become the most desirable residence sites. Basing my views upon these established facts, I conclude that the question of approach to the city is an important one. Having resided six years on the hills west within the city limits, I am of the opinion that no one avenue will be sufficient. Temple street has been graded and is now accommodated with a good cable railroad system. The grade is all sufficient when a drainage for the surface water is provided. Let it remain for cable road purposes mainly. Second street has been graded for a cable road and a road operated on it. The grade is deficient from Pearl to Figueroa street. The city is willing to regrade that portion at the expense of the city and immediately we are told that a committee has tendered an offer of thirty thousand dollars as a bonus for the construction and operating of a cable road over the old line. As this committee is composed of members of the Los Angeles Improvement Company, who constructed the road in 1885, and who received a bonus of thirty thousand dollars, it is presumed that the present offer embraces that original bonus which was received for the purpose of constructing and operating the road. A failure to operate the road works a forfeiture of that bonus, and the present offer to return it to the channel for which it was intended is an act of justice, and merits the approval of all who were induced to invest in the hills because of that road. The regrading and proper grading of the street, from Pearl to Figueroa, by the city, and the construction of a cable line as far as the street is now graded, would provide the western hills with three lines of cable road —Temple, Second and Seventh, and properly distributed for public convenience. The question of traffic streets is an important one also. Temple street and Second street afford only a parall grade for heavy teams, but sufficient for carriage ways. There remain three possible avenues for traffic. They are First, Third and Sixth, both Ward and Orange streets, serving as western extensions for Sixth street travel. First street is susceptible of either a cut to a traffic grade or a tunnel. It is better to leave the hill and tunnel through it. Third street, from Hope to Hill street, is a natural tunnel way. If both First and Third streets were tunneled they would afford excellent approaches to the city from the back country coming in off of Temple by way of Union avenue or Lake Shore avenue on to First street, or if desiring to enter the city further south, coming along Second street to Pearl, would lead direct through Third street tunnel or down to Sixth street. Third street is now being graded west of Pearl, and if a tunnel were cut through Third street it would afford a direct route for a large population. We cannot have all of those good things at one time, but they will all come in their own time.

The new scheme now before the Council to cut Second street to a traffic grade of 1 in 25, 4 in a hundred, with a tunnel from Hill to Hope streets—a fill of 23 feet at Pearl street, and a continuous fill to Second-street park, in front of which is a fill of 17 feet, and at the corner of First street and Belmont avenue a cut of 18 feet and so on west, cutting as much as 35 feet and filling proportionately, to the city limits. There will be some property to condemn, very much to be damaged, beautiful hill sites to be brought low and a long time to carry out the scheme, so that it will work confiscation to many and profit to but few, involving as it will at least three years in time and a half million of dollars. It seems impracticable, unnecessary and very unjust in many instances. Many who signed the petition under a misapprehension of the facts are now signing counter petitions. We have been taxed for bridges to the East Side, now why not tax the whole city for approaches to the West Side? J. W. ELLIS.

A Grand Success.

The ladies of Immanuel church, who have been giving our business people banquets, not lunches, in the Crocker building on Broadway, a few doors south of Second street, for the past three days, are succeeding beyond all expectation. The first day they feasted three hundred, the second over four hundred, and yesterday between five and six hundred satisfied their appetites in royal fashion. These lunches are really superb, and the stipend of 25 cents paid for them, is really like getting five gold dollars in change for a two-dollar greenback. The ladies are each surpassing the other to make the comers satisfied and gratified inside and outside, and today they will put forth a sort of coup de grace that will surpass all previous efforts.

WORLD'S FAIR DAY.

The Fair Bills Discussed in the House.

GREAT INTEREST MANIFESTED.

The Four Rival Cities' Respective Claims Advocated by Able Representatives.

Associated Press Dispatches to the HERALD.

WASHINGTON, February 20.—By special order, today was set apart by the House for debate on the report of the committee on World's Fair. The galleries were well filled with spectators. The usual preliminary routine business was transacted without show of impatience. A message from the President was read relative to the Sisseton and Wahperton Indian agreement.

Morrill, of Kansas, presented the conference report on the Senate bill to increase the pensions of helpless soldiers. The agreement makes the proposed increases take effect from the date of the passage of the bill, on the issue of a surgeon's certificate. Morrill explained that the bill involved the expenditure of from $400,000 to $450,000 for this year. The report was adopted.

THE WORLD'S FAIR MATTER.

Candler, of Massachusetts, explained how the time was to be divided—one hour to the chairman (himself) and one hour to each of the four contending cities. Tomorrow the opponents of any bill were to have one hour, and the remainder of the day was to be divided between the representatives of the four contending cities.

Mills, of Texas, demanded half of the time in behalf of the opponents of the bill.

Candler offered to give the opposition two hours, but Mills did not think this a fair division.

The Speaker said the question was twofold: First, as to whether a fair should be held; second, at what point. The chair thought the debate should be so arranged as to give full information to the House upon the point it desired explainep.

THE DEBATE OPENED.

Candler took the floor and opened the debate. He proceeded to explain in part the provisions of the two bills. One was intended for use in case the fair should go to New York, Chicago or St. Louis, and provided for the appropriation by the Government of $2,500,000 to make its own exhibit. The other was drawn to meet the requirements in case the fair was located at Washington. If held here the money would be raised by the District Government by the issue of bonds.

Flower, of New York, followed on behalf of New York.

Flower was followed by Moore, of New Hampshire, Covert, Cummings, Tracy and Quinn, all of New York, in favor of New York.

Hitt then opened the debate for Chicago.

Hitt was followed by Adams, of Illinois, in favor of Chicago.

Hitt and Adams, Lawler and Taylor, of Illinois, McCreary, of Kentucky, Cutcheon and Chipman, of Michigan, and Perkins, of Kansas, set forth the claims of Chicago, and Frank Niedringhaus, Stone and Dockery, of Missouri, Breckinridge, of Arkansas, and Caruth, of Kentucky, those of St. Louis.

McComas, of Maryland, Lee, of Virginia, Coleman, of Louisiana, and Compton and Stockbridge, of Maryland, spoke in favor of Washington, and the House adjourned.

ABSCONDER SILCOTT.

Thought to be Hiding in the State of Washington.

WASHINGTON, February 20.—The report has reached here that it is supposed that Silcott, the absconding cashier of the Sergeant-at-Arms of the National House of Representatives, is somewhere in the State of Washington. Following is a description of the fugitive: He is 51 years of age; height, 5 feet 7 inches; weight, 195 pounds. He is corpulent, with very heavy, stooping shoulders; protruding stomach; ruddy complexion; short thick neck; pleasant face; blue eyes; gray hair, and is bald on the top of his head. He has a scar extending from one eyebrow to the nose, which causes a squint or cast in one of his eyes. He wore when he left here, long chin whiskers and mustache, mixed with gray. He wears No. 7 shoes. His feet are pigeon-toed and very offensive when exposed. He is an inveterate smoker and an occasional drinker, his favorite drink being whisky. He uses glasses in reading.

Senate Proceedings.

WASHINGTON, February 20.—After routine business the Senate took up and adopted Chandler's resolution calling on the Attorney-General for information as to the assassination at Quincy, Fla., of United States Deputy Marshal Saunders.

Blair then resumed his speech on his Educational bill.

Bankruptcy Bills.

WASHINGTON, February 20.—The Terry bankruptcy bill was completed by the House committee on judiciary this morning, and the chairman was authorized to report it favorably to the House.

Culbertson, of Texas, received permission to report as a minority measure, the bankruptcy bill introduced by him.

Looking Out for Spreckels.

WASHINGTON, February 20. — Claus Spreckels appeared before the House committee on ways and means today, protesting against the reduction of the duty on sugar.

Navassa Rioters Sentenced.

BALTIMORE, February 20.—The Navassa rioters were sentenced this afternoon. George S. Key, Henry Jones and Edward Smith were sentenced to be hanged March 28th. The fourteen men convicted of manslaughter were sentenced to terms in the penitentiary of from two to ten years.

The President at Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, February 20.—President Harrison arose early, and after breakfasting at the Duquesne Club, visited points of interest under the guidance of Andrew Carnegie. This afternoon a reception was held at the court house. In the evening the Carnegie free library was dedicated by the President.

Testing the Ordinance.

POMONA, Cal., February 20.—[Special.] The third case tried under the obnoxious prohibition ordinance resulted late tonight in a disagreement, the jury standing eight for conviction and four for acquittal. George R. Smith, the proprietor of Brown's hotel, was the defendant, and Recorder C. E. Sumner presided. The case against King, proprietor of King's hotel, who was convicted recently, will probably be appealed.

MRS. TERRY IN COURT.

Her Trial for Contempt Begun. Jury Being Impaneled.

SAN FRANCISCO, February 20.—When the case of contempt of court against Mrs. Sarah Althea Terry was called in the United States District Court this morning, Judge Ross, of the Southern District of California, occupied the bench, owing to the disqualification of Judge Hoffman. Mrs. Terry appeared in court in deep mourning, wearing a black veil that was so heavy that it obscured her face entirely from the large number of persons who were present to get a glimpse of her. After the jury was called, United States District Attorney Carey stated that the matter for their consideration was an indictment preferred against Sarah Althea Terry on the charge of having resisted the United States Marshal in the Circuit Court, September 3, 1888, when that officer had been ordered to remove her from the room. The District Attorney informed the jurors that if any of them had served on the jury in the Circuit Court during the past year they could be excused. The jurors were then examined as to their qualifications.

P. Overton was the first juror examined. He remembered having read all about the matter in the newspapers, but he did not remember what impression it made on him. He believed he could try the case according to the law and the evidence. He was not unusually sympathetic and could try a woman with as little prejudice as though it was a man.

To Mr. Foote, Mrs. Terry's counsel, the juror stated that he was not acquainted with Judge Field or any one connected with the case.

"Have you been in politics much?" asked Mr. Foote.

"A little. I belonged to a Garfield club during that campaign."

"Suppose it should appear that this prosecution is pushed on by United States Attorney-General Miller, at the instigation of Justice Field, would it have any effect on your mind?"

"No, sir; I think not."

"The fact that the political party to which you belong, if proven so, was taking a hand in this prosecution—would that effect your judgment?"

"Not at all. I don't think the matter of sufficient importance to cut any political figure."

The juror was accepted.

DIED ON THE GALLOWS.

An Unfeeling Wife-Slayer and Would-be Suicide Hanged.

BELLEFONTE, Pa., February 20.—William Delby Hopkins was hanged here this morning for the murder of his wife and mother-in-law. When the drop fell first the rope broke, and the condemned man was again fastened up. The drop fell successfully the second time. The crime for which Hopkins paid the penalty was one of the most unfeeling ever chronicled. Hopkins was 29 years old. In 1887 he married Maggie Wigaman. For a year they lived happily, but Hopkins became jealous, and finally left his wife, who returned to her home. On September 30, 1889, he went to the Wigaman home and deliberately shot both his wife and her mother dead; then running from the house he stopped in the street and fired two shots at himself, but only succeeded in inflicting a slight flesh wound.

DOUBLE HANGING AT PHILADELPHIA.

PHILADELPHIA, February 20.—Jacob Schlop and Thomas J. Cole were hanged together in Moyamensing prison this morning. Schlop was hanged for the murder of Anton Schilling, and Cole for the murder of Walter McAlister. Both murders were cold-blooded.

HUNTINGTON AND VILLARD.

Big Schemes Being Developed by the Railroad Magnates.

NEW YORK, February 20.—It is currently reported that heavy negotiations are pending between C. P. Huntington and Henry Villard, whereby the former will become the purchaser of large tracts of coal lands, in the new State of Washington. Details are withheld, but it is understood that the acquisition of these lands will cost Huntington and his associates several million dollars, independent of the money they will expend for the establishment of a line of steamers to develop traffic.

ONE OF VILLARD'S SCHEMES.

NEW YORK, February 20.—The Times says: It is announced on practically official authority that a deal is under way by which the Northern Pacific expects to reach the Eastern seaboard by the Wisconsin Central and Baltimore and Ohio, the scheme being personally managed by Henry Villard, who has full power and lots of money.

A LIFE SACRIFICED.

CHICAGO, February 20.—Miss Amy C. Flower, otherwise known by her church name of Sister Rose Gertrude, is in this city on her way to San Francisco, whence she will sail for the Sandwich islands, where she will devote the remaining years of her life to the service of the lepers at Kalaui. She is the petite and pretty daughter of an English Episcopal clergyman. She was converted to Catholicism and goes out as a member of the order of St. Dominicus, with the Pope's blessing, and scientific apparatus for propagating and observing the bacillus of leprosy.

A Swimmer Drowned.

SALINAS, Cal., February 20. — The badly decomposed body of Rosario Avila, better known as Murphy Collins, was found in the Salinas river, near Blanco, today. The young man attempted to swim the river at Chualar some three weeks ago. The river was booming, but Collins was an expert swimmer and would have reached the opposite side in safety, had he not been taken with cramps.

Murder Trial at Woodland.

WOODLAND, February 20.—A jury was secured in the Reid McNiel murder trial this afternoon. A number of eye witnesses of the difficulty agreed that the quarrel began over a dice game, and ended in words and blows, but no one saw a knife. Defendant has been released on bail of $10,000.

ON TO STRASBURG.

Incidents of Election Day in Germany.

A VERY LARGE VOTE POLLED.

The Emperor Creates Consternation by Ordering Troops to March to Strasburg.

Associated Press Dispatches to the HERALD.

BERLIN, February 20.—The general election for members of the Reichstag took place today. The size of the vote polled was phenomenal. The election officials were overwhelmed with work, and at the polling places were unable to keep up with the crowds of electors who, during the dinner hour, hastened to deliver their vote. The majority of the workshops were closed during the day. Many Anti-Semitic Conservatives voted for the Socialist candidates in order to spite Verchow.

A great sensation was created here at 1 o'clock this afternoon by the sudden receipt of an order from the Emperor for all the troops comprising the garrison of the city to march to Strasburg forthwith. The order was instantly complied with. The people were almost panic-stricken until it was announced that the maneuver was simply one of the military surprises inaugurated by the Emperor to test the efficiency of the garrison to repel a sudden attack by the enemy.

FATAL FLAMES.

Four Children Killed and Their Parents Seriously Injured.

KINGSTON, Ont., February 20.—At a late hour last night fire broke out in a two-story frame dwelling in Dagot street, occupied by John Leslon and family, and when the firemen entered the house they found four children dead in bed. Mrs. Leslon, after vain efforts to rescue the children, jumped from a second-story window, with her babe in her arms. Her leg was broken by the fall, but the baby was uninjured. Mr. Leslon also made heroic efforts to save the children, and was seriously burned. He will probably die.

New Hotel Opened.

BAKERSFIELD, Cal., February 20.—Stackpole & Lincoln opened the new Arlington hotel today. The old Arlington was destroyed by fire, and a two-story brick, costing $50,000, has been erected on the site.

Three Boys Drowned.

PORT DOVER, Ont., February 20.—Three boys were skating on Dover lake. The ice broke and all were drowned.

The Willowy Washington Girl.

A tall, willowy Washington girl, whose name rustled through this neck of woods in the society gossip of a year ago in connection with the young men of the Chinese legation, received a $50 telegram of thanks a few days ago from Pekin. This independent young woman, who asserted her right to receive the Orientals in a social way and to accept their invitations to the theater, to drives and walks, precisely as any girl would those of any congenial American, desired to show her appreciation of the many gifts she had received from the righ young Chinese. Therefore, last summer, she engaged a young artist who was home on a vacation from the Beaux Arts to draw for her forty India ink sketches, the motif of each to be dictated by herself. One scene was that of two pretty American girls passing two Celestials in their native gatb. Another pictured the introduction of the same dramatis personæ at a fashionable afternoon reception. A third sdetch described a passing recognition on a street car platform, the pretty girl getting off just as the follower of Confucius stepped on. Others were pictures successively of an afternoon call on the young woman from her Oriental admirer, a stroll in the moonlight, a ride in an open carriage, a shopping excursion, and so on. The final picture shows a fair, slender girl on the steps of a Washington mansion, shading her eyes with her hand and gazing at a disappearing cab, from which a Chinese young man waves his handkerchief. The sketches made a beautiful album, which was sumptuously bound and sent to China as a New Year's gift to the diplomat who was called home last year. The artist went back to Paris $200 richer, the young woman is very happy over the gift, and the young Celestial was evidently very willing to spend considerable meney to make his acknowledgments.—[N. In the Evening.

In the evening of our days,
When the first far stars above
Glimmer dimmer through the haze
Than the dewy eyes of love,
Shall we mournfully revert
To the vanished morns and Mays
Of our youth, with hearts that hurt—
In the evening of our days?

Shall the hand that holds your own,
Till the twain are thrilled as now,
Be withheld or colder grown?
Shall my kiss upon your brow
Falter from its high estate?
And, in all forgetful ways,
Shall we sit apart and wait—
In the evening of our days?

Nay, my wife—my life!—the gloom
Shall enfold us velvetwise,
And my smile shall be the groom
Of the gladness of your eyes;
Gently, gently as the dew
Mingles with the darkening maze,
I shall fall asleep with you—
In the evening of our days.
—James Whitcomb Riley, in Lippincott's.

The Holocaust.

Heart-free, with the least little touch of spleen.
—Maud.

Above my mantel there stands
A little bronze sarcophagus,
Carved by the unknown artist's hands
With this one word—Amoribus!
Along the lid a Love lies dead:
Across his breast his broken bow;
Elsewhere they dig his tiny bed,
And round it women wailing go;
A trick, a toy—mere "Paris ware,"
Some Quartier-Latin sculptor's whim,
Wrought in a fit of mock despair,
With sight, it may be, something dim,
Because the love of yesterday,
Had left the grenier, light Musette,
And she who made the morrow gay,
Lutine or Mimi, was not yet,
A toy. But ah! what hopes deferred,
(O friend, with sympathetic eye!)
What vows (now decently interred)
Within that "narrow compass" lie!
For there, last night, not sadly, too,
With one live ember I cremated
A nest of cooing billets-doux,
That just two decades back were dated.
—Austin Dobson.

Cancer of the Nose.

In 1875 a sore appeared on my nose, and grew rapidly. As my father had cancer and my husband died of it, I became alarmed, and consulted my physician. His treatment did no good, and the sore grew larger and worse in every way, until I had concluded that I was to die from its effects. I was persuaded to take S. S. S., and a few bottles cured me. This was after all the doctors and other medicines had failed. I have had no return of the cancer.

Sewer System, Storm Drains and Outfall.

Last summer the voters of this city expressed their views at the polls on a proposition to spend nearly a million and a half dollars on a system of sewerage, including main sewers inside the city, an outfall from the city limits to Ballona and storm drains subsidiary to the inside system. It was a most emphatic expression of opinion, leaving no doubt in the world that they were opposed to the plan as a whole. Pending the canvass preceding the election the citizens had ample opportunity of expressing their views through the press, and the weight of opinion leaned to favoring the inside system and to opposing both the outfall and the storm drains. Some months have elapsed since this emphatic expression of public opinion was developed, and in the interim a committee of citizens have sat with a committee of the Council and the City Engineer for weeks working out changes deemed necessary in the original plan. The deliberations of this joint committee were aided by the counsel of Mr. Rudolph Hering, a sanitary engineer of high standing. As a result of these efforts on the part of the citizens' committee, of the Council and of Mr. Hering, a tripartite proposition is now before the people, to be acted on at the polls in about three weeks. The exact days are the 13th, 14th and 15th of March, on which days a vote is to be cast—first, on the inside system; second, on the storm system; and third, on the outfall sewer. This is what the people at the time of the former vote wanted, and the Council refused. There is no doubt the refusal to segregate the question into parts had a good deal to do with getting out the vote on the negative side. The separation of the question is therefore regarded by the people as an important matter. Well, in this respect they have got what they demanded.

As to the plans proposed, there are not many changes—there is none of a material nature in the storm drains. The specifications for these are about the same as before. The cost has been segregated, and the taxpayers know just what these will cost. The City Engineer put the expense last summer at $450,000 as an estimate not claimed to be accurate. It is now put at $540,000, and bonds to that amount are asked for. This was the most unpopular feature of the old system, and it has not gained an iota in popularity since the vote against it was cast. It will be defeated again.

The same is true of the outfall sewer. At this time the sentiment of the people is strong against that scheme. All classes of the community expressed themselves to that effect, and multitudes of them gave cogent reasons to back their views. They have not changed in their views on this any more than on the scheme to build the storm drains. It is not necessary to go over the ground the argument traversed a few months ago. The citizens know them by rote, are persuaded of their soundness and will vote no on the outfall sewer when it comes up, in larger numbers than the bonds were defeated by in the summer. Mr. Hering's views are far from satisfactory on the subject of both outfall sewer and storm drains. He was kept in total ignorance of the vote taken on the proposition, and expressed great surprise when told of the defeat of the plan at the polls. He had little or no opportunity to study up the river route for the outfall, he is not acquainted with the topography of this section, nor does he know anything of the contention here that the sewage ought to be utilized for irrigation. He merely endorses the Ballona scheme as a feasible route to the ocean, and his opinion was neither asked nor given upon all the other matters in contention.

But while the outfall sewer and the storm drains will be defeated in March as they were in August, the inside system will carry by a very large vote. The taxpayers recognize that there is a large area of the city where population has so increased within the past ten years as to need sewers. It is of course a statement as false as Belial to say this city has no sewers. The populous part of the city is nearly all well sewered. But there are other districts where sewers are needed. The proposition meets with even more favor now than it did last summer, for the reason that important changes have been made in the plans. An interceptor is provided, if necessary, along the south limits of the city to connect with the bed of the river as an outlet for excessive sewage in the winter months when much rain may fall and wipe out the demand for sewage for irrigation. This feature will increase the favor with which the people look upon the plan to sewer the city. The vote in favor of this necessary improvement will be large, but the people will think that is enough for the present. This interior system will cost $374,000. It will take some time to spend that, and by that time we shall be better able to judge about further developments.

FROM Europe the report reaches this country that following in the wake of la grippe, or Russian influenza, is a disease of the respiratory organs which takes the shape of small pustules, or "fever sores." In some instances cases very like cholera have been developed, and some anxiety is being felt as to the health of the people next summer. Forewarned as the authorities are, they will no doubt take extra precautions to guard against any disease assuming an epidemic form. And it will be well for each individual to pay particular attention to his own person, to his personal habits, diet, and every other matter of his daily life. Householders, too, will do well to maintain a state of great cleanliness about their premises. We have had almost an assured immunity from any such epidemic, but it will do no harm to be careful.

Mutiny in the Ranks.

It was a significant sign of the times when Mr. Burrows, the ablest parliamentarian in the lower House of Congress, went over the other day to the leaders on the Democratic side and told them he would support any reasonable proposition for debate on the rules, which debate Reed and his followers had determined to cut short. In the absence of McKinley Speaker Reed, it seems, had entrusted Cannon, of Illinois, with the task of doing the gagging. Several propositions by the Democrats had been made, but were insolently rejected by Cannon, who was watched and aided all the time by Reed, and at last the previous question was demanded. The spirit of fair play and decency was at once aroused all over the House, and by a vote, of more than two to one, including among the Republicans nearly a score of its pronounced leaders, the demand was denied. It was a remarkable scene, and such a rebuke to the Speaker as will not be lost even on him, much less upon the country.

Indeed, this action, taken with the open rebellion of such papers as the Lowell Courier and Boston Advertiser among the stalwart, thick and thin partisan journals, is an unmistakable sign of a breach that will widen rather than heal at once. For one, better than the old-time Republican leaders, sees the tendency to the spectacular in politics on their side. Two years ago Foraker was the idol of the party because he was able to say and do striking things. Even in the Chicago convention he was the hurrah candidate whom the sober element of his party openly feared and secretly despised. Nothing, however, less than the merited disgrace, that has overtaken him, could have relegated him to the place he deserved to hold before the people. Halstead the picturesque word-painter, Ingalls the percussion orator—the French would call him a poseur,—Chandler the New Hampshire office-broker, each one of these, in turn, is passing from public view and losing every quality of safe leadership, even in his own party at home.

There can be no doubt—and in fact there is no denial—that Speaker Reed was put forward as a leader who had all the boldness of any of the rest, and much more real ability. He is a strong man, and comes as near having a genius for leadership in Congress as any man his party has ever produced. But he has overdone the business he set about and was expected to do; and he, in his turn, cannot hold the place at the head of his party where his audacious assumption of power has placed him. "The instinct of the many, which is better than the wisdom of the few," is already discrediting and dethroning him. There is a widespread mutiny in the ranks of the party itself. The men who begin to see the ephemeral nature of "smartness" and spectacular politics, generally are growing restive under a régime that promises nothing but strife, whose wear and tear it is impossible for any party, in the long run, to withstand.

THE fight between the Mayor, whose contest is really that of the people, and the Council ring, has reached a very interesting stage. The ring banks have in their hands $360,000 of the city funds, which they refuse to surrender to the City Bank, which offers 4½ per cent interest for its use. The language of the charter is plain, that the money shall be in the city vaults or loaned out on interest for the benefit of the city. The banks which are using the city funds for nothing are making a fight to maintain their hold on the public moneys. The Mayor favors the loaning of the money to the bank that bid four and one-half per cent. for its use. He now refuses to sign the school bonds unless the money received for them is placed in the city vaults, or loaned to the bank that agrees to pay interest for its use. Unless he can have assurances that this will be done, he will refuse to sign the bonds and the high school cannot be built. The Mayor makes a good point when he says he will not give the ring $100,000 more money to fight for and to fight with. It is an interesting fight as it is, and it promises to be more so. At this stage of the game the Mayor has taken the last fall out of his antagonist, and it looks like his fight.

IT LOOKS very much to us as if the Government would lose none of its dignity, and Justice none of its prestige, if the prosecution of Mrs. Terry for offences charged against her during the lifetime of her husband, were dropped. We see nothing to be gained by pursuing the defendant at this late hour. Her husband's life has paid all forfeits and all penalties that can decently be exacted out of the circumstances which arose in the genesis of this wretched business. Let this thing continue, and it will not be Mrs. Terry who, at the bar of public opinion, will be held as the culprit, but those who pursue her. When once the public feel that prosecution has turned into persecution, the authorities and the accused will change places.

THE markets of Los Angeles at this time are supplied with lemons of local growth as good as any imported fruit that ever reaches America. These lemons come from Riverside, Ontario, Pomona, Azusa, Duarte, San Fernando, and all over the section. They are seedless, or nearly so, and a well of acid. The retail price is ten to fifteen cents a dozen. Lemons are a luxury elsewhere. Here we can all use them. The benefit to the public health resulting from a free use of citric acid is inestimable.

DRIFT AND DELUGE.

A Bad State of Affairs in the Blockaded Districts.

RAILROAD TRAFFIC PARALYZED.

The Central Pacific Tracks Temporarily Open, but Fresh Snow Drifting In.

Associated Press Dispatches to THE HERALD.

SACRAMENTO, February 20.—The cyclone and rotary plows have at last broken the new blockade on the Sierra Nevadas, and if no more deep snow drifts upon the track trains will again be running within twenty-four hours. A number of east-bound passengers, who had been delayed at Colfax, returned to Sacramento tonight, and will proceed eastward by the southern route. One of the east-bound trains which has been on the road five days, succeeded in reaching Truckee today. No trains will be sent out until all the rails have been flanged out in order to insure safety.

SNOWING ALL NIGHT.

DUTCH FLAT STATION, Cal., February 20.—It snowed steadily since last night until noon today, when it broke away for about two hours, but tonight it is snowing hard, with indications of continuing all night. People are kept busy keeping the snow off their buildings. Woodmen and miners living out of town are coming in on snow-shoes, as they are out of provisions. The railroad is open between Emigrant Gap and Truckee. Train No. 3 of the 17th will reach Truckee tonight. The outfit train is stuck between Blue cañon and Emigrant Gap.

THE NEW SNOW HARD TO COMBAT.

SAN FRANCISCO, February 20.—In the Sierras snow fell steadily last night, and early this morning the new snow measured twenty-five inches on the level at Blue cañon. It fell on the Central overland line all the way from Auburn to Truckee, and more is still coming down. In spite of all efforts the snow plows were impeded so that trains could not get through. West-bound passengers on trains due here yesterday and today are held at Truckee, and the outlook is that if they get here by noon tomorrow they will be doing well. The east-bound train of Tuesday was at Summit at noon today. It was expected at Truckee tonight, and then the west-bound trains will be started moving. Last night's east-bound overland is held at Colfax. No trains were sent out today by the Central route. The difficulty is due to the new snow piling in the cuts where the old snow is thirty or forty feet high in some places, so that push plows have no opportunity to turn the snow to one side. The steam plows are working effectively. East of Truckee to Reno the track is easily kept clear. No trains will be sent into the mountains until all is clear.

A BAD STATE OF AFFAIRS.

Dispatches received at Fourth and Townsend streets this morning stated that the west-bound train, which should have arrived in this city last evening, is held at Truckee. The wires are down beyond Cisco, and how matters stand from there on is not known. The east-bound train which was held fer a time at Colfax yesterday, managed to work its way up to Cisco, although snow was falling fast and furiously. This morning at 7:30 it left Cisco for Truckee, but whether it has made the trip or not is not known, owing to the failure of the wires.

Secretary Richardson stated this morning: "Affairs are very bad indeed; with tremendous work of plows we are able to move trains a little each day; but if the storm keeps up it is impossible to determine just how serious the result may be."

LOS ANGELES LINE BLOCKED.

There is a landslide at Martinez which has covered the track so as to make it impassable, and the Los Angeles express which was dispatched last night, had to go by way of Niles and Livermore, and the Southern train which came in this morning, traveled over the same route. The removal of the slide will take but a short time, however. With the large force of men at work it is thought it will be clear this evening.

THE DONAHUE ROAD.

On the Donahue road running to Ukiah, workmen have cleared the landslide away at tunnel No. 6, one and one-half miles north of Cloverdale, and now passengers can go through to Ukiah by traveling about two miles on a hand-car.

TRAINS AT RENO.

RENO, Nev., February 20.—This afternoon No. 3 mail train, which left San Francisco on Monday night, arrived at Reno. It had been detained on the mountain for sixty hours. Superintendent Fillmore reports that it will be thirty-six or forty hours before any other trains are liable to get through between Emigrant Gap and Alta. There are now four trains at Reno, and another will be in tomorrow morning from the east. All of them will be held here until the mountains are clear. The barometer is low and the outlook is not very encouraging.

THE OREGON LINE.

Through Trains Cannot Possibly Run Within Six Weeks.

ASHLAND, Ore., February 20.—Twenty-five thousand people in the Rogue River valley, who have been for more than a month past waiting for mail from the outside world, will probably be gratified tomorrow, for a mail train with a carload of mail, transferred beyond Dunsmuir, is reported rapidly approaching these parts, and will arrive tomorrow morning by 2 o'clock, if nothing happens. The wrecking force's reports from Cow Creek cañon indicate that the damages to the railroad there are much greater than at first anticipated. At last reports Pratt's men had not yet reached the big slide, the road north of Glendale having to be almost entirely newly built. It is now generally understood that the railroad people have abandoned all hopes of clearing out the big West Fork slide, but will build three miles of entirely new road around it on the opposite side of the cañon. Beyond the big slide many miles of track have to be almost entirely rebuilt also. The latest reports from the railroad officials who have been over the ground say that through trains cannot possibly run between Portland and San Francisco within six weeks. Local trains have been running a number of days between Ashland and Glendale, but have not carried mail regularly.

THE STORM RE-OPENED.

SISSONS, Cal., February 20.—The storm has re-opened. It is snowing furiously. Over a foot of additional snow has fallen. A plow with several locomotives is bucking the snow. A train which was five days behind from Dunsmuir arrived this evening. The engines of the same were off the track a large part of the time and but eight miles were made in three days. No landslides now interrupt the plows, which have to keep running, as the snow is over four feet deep in places. The Edgewood and Dunsmuir blockades are now cleared.

ANOTHER BLOCKADE ANTICIPATED.

REDDING, Cal., February 20.—It has been snowing here all morning. The ground is very wet, and the snow melts as fast as it falls. Another blockade on the railroad is anticipated.

DISASTROUS FLOODS.

Huron Visited by the Greatest Flood in its History.

HURON, Cal., February 20.—The heaviest and most disastrous flood known to the settlers of Huron, struck this place today, causing heavy damages to the town and surrounding country. Settlers who have been here for thirty years have never seen such a flood in this country before. The flooded country is about fifteen miles long and one mile wide. Trains will not run from Huron to Alcalde for some time, washouts being between here and that place.

A DELUGE AT NAPA.

NAPA, Cal., February 20.—Heavy rain fell steadily last night, choking up sewers and flooding some of the streets and sidewalks. The river is out of its banks in a few places. No damage has been done. The county road between Napa and Yountville is under water a distance of two miles. The weather is cold. The hills surrounding the valley are covered with snow.

RAIN AND SNOW AT NEVADA.

NEVADA, Cal., February 20.—It rained last night until 3 o'clock this morning, when it got colder and six inches of snow fell. The thermometer now registers 40, and the weather is misty. The new malt house at Fogeli's brewery collapsed last night, being the first building crushed by this storm. The season's total precipitation is 78 inches.

CONTINUOUS STORM AT AUBURN.

AUBURN, Cal., February 20.—It commenced raining last Friday night, and has stormed steadily since, with occasional falls of snow. There has been a heavy fall of snow in the mountainous part of the county. The rainfall to date is 36.50 inches. Last season it was about 13 inches.

THE PRECIPITATION AT PLACERVILLE.

PLACERVILLE, February 20.—The storm which commenced Sunday still continues. About two feet of heavy snow has since fallen, and is rapidly melting into its equivalent of 4.8 inches of water. The total rainfall for the season is 54.5 inches.

PETALUMA FARMERS DISCOURAGED.

PETALUMA, Cal., February 20.—It commenced raining again here Saturday afternoon; giving 38.08 inches for the season. Farmers are badly discouraged. There will be no wheat in this section, except a small area. Volunteer wheat will be very late.

FLOODS EXPECTED AT GILROY.

GILROY, February 20.—An inch and a quarter was added to the rainfall in the last twenty-four hours, making over thirty-four inches for the season. Floods are again expected if there is no cessation of the storm.

DOWN A BANK.

A Snow Plow Derailed with Fatal Consequences.

SACRAMENTO, February 20.—Last night at 9:30, at Cape Horn Mills, a snow plow, engine 315 and four other locomotives were derailed by a broken rail. The plow, engine and two succeeding locomotives were carried down the bank, some sixty feet, the two rear engines being dragged from the rails. Brakeman Williams was so badly scalded that he died in two hours. Fireman Evans was severely scalded and bruised. Engineer William Dorland was badly injured about the hips, and his fireman, Bates, more or less bruised. The injured were brought here to the railroad hospital.

LIVE STOCK PERISHING.

The Effect of Grasshoppers and Snow in British Columbia.

VICTORIA, B. C., February 20.—Intelligence has been received that the recent bad weather in Nicola, B. C., will have severe results for the stock-raisers in that region. The destruction of feed by grasshoppers last season was a serious blow, but with two and one half feet of snow, frozen hard by the intense cold, the chances are that horses and cattle will die by the thousand on the ranges. Horses have been found frozen stiff standing in the deep snow on the hills. It is difficult at present to estimate what the losses will be, but there is a million dollars' worth of stock in the Nicola region, and a large proportion will perish.

Deep Snow.

NEVADA, Cal., February 20.—It has been snowing very fast this evening, but a shifting wind for the past six hours gives some hope that the storm is about over. At the Mountain house and Forest City the total depth of the snow is nineteen feet, and at Graniteville twenty-five feet.

TO BEAT NELLIE BLY.

Citizen Train Going into the World Girdling Business.

BOSTON, February 20.—George Francis Train is busy perfecting the plans for his proposed trip around the world, which he expects to accomplish in sixty days, starting from Tacoma, Washington. He received a telegram tonight from Radbaugh, proprietor of the Tacoma Ledger, guaranteeing a special steamer from Tacoma to the steamer Abyssinia, which leaves Vancouver March 17th. Train is to leave Boston March 9th.

Patriotic Educators.

NEW YORK, February 20.—The National Educational Conference today elected officers and passed resolutions declaring public schools the chief source of civilization and the bulwark of civil and religious liberty; approving the placing of the American flag over school houses; recommending the reading of the Declaration of Independence and other historical papers; that they could meet hostile criticism, and make the public schools the allies of the home and the source of the highest moral instruction, without any sectarian bias.

Consolidation Ratified.

DENVER, February 20.—A meeting of the stockholders of the various roads included in the recent Union-Pacific-Fort Worth consolidation, was held this morning at the Union depot, for the purpose of ratifying the deal. The formalities were easily disposed of, and the last band of red tape was placed around the consolidation.

Drowned While Skating.

VICTORIA, B. C., February 20.—A Coroner's inquest was held this morning on the bodies of Edward and James Alexander. The bodies were found at the bottom of a pond in eight feet of water with skates still on their feet. The jury returned a verdict of drowned by breaking through the ice while skating Wednesday night.

His Brother Will Be His Manager Here — Great Demand for Nevada Bank Stock.

Associated Press Dispatches to the HERALD.

SAN FRANCISCO, February 20.—Isaias W. Hellman, who is to take the presidency of the Nevada Bank, arrived here from Los Angeles today, accompanied by Mrs. Hellman. They are at the Palace hotel and will remain here for about a week. "Since my arrival this morning," said he, in answer to a question, "I have had applications from about thirty other people. The list of San Francisco people willing to subscribe prior to this involved from fifty to one hundred names, so I could say nothing very satisfactory to them, except that I would take their names and the amount which they wanted, and do the best I could for them. Probably a definite list of the stockholders will not be completed for at least a week.

"I shall stay here for that time, and hope to accomplish a good deal in that period, but should definite arrangements be made, I would not probably take the presidency of the bank until about April 1st. As president of the Farmers and Merchants Bank in Los Angeles I will have a good deal to demand my attention until then. Besides, my other interests will have to be arranged."

Mr. Hellman said his brother in Los Angeles would take the management of the bank there. This city will be Mr. Hellman's home, immediately after he takes hold of the Nevada Bank, and he will move his family here.

PURELY A HOAX.

Corbett Did Not Fight a Citizen of Tucson.

TUCSON, Ariz., February 20.—A report recently published in a local newspaper, and which appears to have gained general credence abroad, purporting to give the details of an impromptu prize fight between Corbett, the San Francisco pugilist, and a well-known citizen of Tucson, as the former passed through here en route to New Orleans to meet Kilrain, was purely a hoax, gotten up by a newspaper reporter as a practical joke upon County Surveyor George J. Roskruge, who never put on the gloves in his life.

A BOLD ROBBERY.

How Two Burglars Got at the Contents of a Safe.

ALBANY, Ore., February 20.—Early this morning a stranger called at the residence of Damon Smith, a druggist, at Harrisburg, and wanted some medicine. Smith accompanied him to the store, when the stranger confronted him with a revolver and ordered him to open the safe. Another man appeared at the door also with a drawn revolver. Smith was forced to open the safe. The two men then gagged the druggist, bound him hand and foot, took $900 from the safe, and his gold watch, and escaped. There is no clue to the robbers.

Hints for Vintners.

SAN FRANCISCO, February 20.—At the monthly meeting of the Grape-growers' and Wine-makers' Association today, H. M. Larue and F. A. Haber were appointed to coöperate with the members of the Viticultural Commission, to confer with the Wine-dealers' Association on the matter of bills before Congress influencing the wine industry. F. A. Haber read a paper on the ageing and maturing of wines, in which he took ground in favor of coöperative warehouses, where vintners could store their wines at nominal charge, and on which they could be advanced money at a low rate of interest, if they did not choose to sell.

Spring Valley Water Rates.

SAN FRANCISCO, February 20.—The water committee of the Board of Supervisors today passed to print, with but two dissenting votes, the order fixing the new rates to be paid by consumers of Spring Valley water. The reduction on household rates was from 5 to 11 per cent, while the only increase was on valve rates. The order was made to apply to the fiscal years of 1889, '90 and '91. The new rates show a general increase over those fixed by the board in February, but which the Supreme Court held to be illegal.

A Fatal Infatuation.

SEATTLE, February 20.—John Anderson, the son of well-to-do people in Victoria, but who had been disinherited because of his infatuation with Elva Marston, a notorious woman, shot himself fatally this morning at a dance hall here, because the Marston woman refused to become reconciled to him after a quarrel.

LATER—Anderson died this evening.

Another Pioneer Gone.

SALINAS, Cal., February 20.—John A. Douglass, a pioneer well known throughout the State, died here today. He came to the State in 1835, and was probably more familiar than any other person now living with all the early Spanish, Mexican and other grants of land in the State.

Hennessey and Kelleher Matched.

SAN FRANCISCO, February 20.—Billy Hennessey and Denny Kelleher signed articles today, to fight at the San Jose Athletic Club, March 20th, for a purse of $800.

Fatally Burned.

SEATTLE, February 20.—Dan R. Williams was probably fatally burned by the explosion of a hanging coal oil lamp in his parlor which he was trying to extinguish last night.

A False Accusation.

WOODLAND, Cal., February 20.—The case of H. J. Palmer, charged with embezzlement by Senator Fair, was concluded today, and defendant was promptly discharged by Judge Ruggles.

Through Trains to San Diego.

RIVERSIDE, Cal., February 20.—Through trains over the Santa Fe from the East to San Diego will pass through, commencing Sunday, February 23d.

Died of Self-Inflicted Wounds.

ALBANY, Ore., February 20.—George Saltmarsh, who shot himself and wife, Monday, died this morning from the effects of his wounds. His wife is recovering.

Incorporated.

SAN FRANCISCO, February 20.—The California State Board of Trade filed articles of incorporation today. The objects of the association are to maintain in this city an exhibit of the agricultural and industrial resources of the State, to promote immigration and to circulate information regarding the development of the State. There is no capital stock. The directors are: E. J. Gregory, G. M. Francis, W. H. Mills, A. A. Hibbard, N. P. Chipman, D. McPherson, Geo. I. Fiske, N. C. Hanscom, A. T. Hatch, A. F. Jones and J. S. Emery.

Proposed Irrigation District.

RIVERSIDE, February 20.—A call has been issued by citizens to form an irrigating district for all the lands lying east of the upper canal of the Riverside Water Company. The district will comprise 15,000 acres of fine orange land.

THE HOME OF A GYPSY KING.

A Brick House Near Dayton Occupied by an Aged Monarch.

A modest brick house, standing a little way back from the street, in a suburb of the city of Dayton, O., is the property and for a part of the year the home of a Gypsy of wide repute, the heir apparent to a throne of Little Egypt; and here, and hereabouts, is the rendezvous of a numerous band or tribe. This settlement is widely known as the home of some of the richest and most influential families of Gypsydom, among them the Stanleys, of whom the present head, Levi, is called the king. This Levi Stanley is a short, heavy-set man of something over 79 years; he is still strong and active, with a ruddy cheek and bright eye. Much of his time is passed with the traveling parties, while his eldest son, Levi, Jr., a stalwart, handsome man of 50, assumes much of the active direction of affairs, looking after property, etc.

Lying scattered about to the north of Dayton are many fine farms owned by them. At present most of the farms are in the hands of tenants, for, however near the Gypsy may be to the primeval man, he has not yet developed a strong liking for the labor of the primeval occupation.

The traveling and camping parties are the most interesting and picturesque feature of the Gypsy life. These usually consist of a single family, the term family meaning the whole blood connection. It may comprise one or a dozen wagons and from three or four to nearly half a hundred people. They make long or short journeys, as directed by the king, stopping at each place as long as the state of the horse and palmistry trades warrants.—[Chautauquan.

Portugal and England.

Portugal has long been nothing but a tributary of England, and three-quarters of a century of passive obedience has not spared it in the present attempt to extricate itself and imitate its ancient story as a navigator and colonizer. The English, getting the Spanish into a place where they could be assailed as associates of the French, tore their stupendous fleets all to pieces. At the battle of the Nile and other actions they made for the French shipping until Napoleon was left without transports and could only operate on the continent of Europe, whereby he had to choose the Russian expedition instead of heading a movement directly against England or her colonies. The Turks were torn all to pieces as a maritime power at the battle of Navarino, into which they were treacherously led. The war of 1812 was nothing but an attempt to break up the rising navy of the United States, and the attitude of England in 1861 showed that she had made no change of view in fifty years. The Crimean war of 1854 was nothing but an effort to prevent Russia pursuing her destinies toward the Indian ocean; and the Berlin conference, which Disraeli organized with Bismarck twenty years later, threw back into Russia her dissatisfied army and made her the prey to socialism, nihilism and disorder. The earnest monarch, Alexander, who had emancipated his serfs, had to lay down his life from the dissatisfaction of his people with their military status.—["Gath," in Enquirer.

Mark Twain on Autographs.

Mark Twain thus recently wrote to an autograph collector in response to a request for his signature:

"I hope I shall not offend you; I shall certainly say nothing with the intention to offend you. I must explain myself, however, and I will do it as kindly as I can. What you ask me to do, I am asked to do as often as one-half dozen times a week. Three hundred letters a year! One's impulse is to freely consent, but one's time and necessary occupations will not permit it. There is no way but to decline in all cases, making no exceptions, and I wish to call your attention to a thing which has probably not occurred to you, and that is this: No man takes pleasure in exercising his trade as a pastime. Writing is my trade, and I exercise it only when I am obliged to. You might make your request of a doctor, or a builder, or a sculpter, and there would be no impropriety in it, but if you ask either of those for a specimen of his trade, his handiwork, he would be justified in rising to a point of order. It would never be fair to ask a doctor for one of his corpses to remember him by."

And all this the humorist wrote on the type-writer, signing his name in the same method. The autograph collector's feelings may be imagined.

She Knew Ingalls at Atchison.

There was a lady from Atchison in the Senate gallery at Washington on Thursday, when the tall chief from Kansas was discussing the race question. "I knew Ingalls," she said "twenty-five years ago. Our families lived almost next door for fifteen years. Satire is milk and honey to him—always was. When I was a girl I thought he was the crossest and most disagreeable fellow I ever saw.

"He started to come over to our house one day and barked his cheek on the clothes line in the yard, where the servant girl had carefully strung it. He was so angry that he turned around, went home and didn't come near us for three months, and next spring he wouldn't vote for my father for mayor. Mrs. Ingalls was always just as nice as he was horrid."—[N. Y. Sun.

Edison's Idea of God.

Mr. Edison says he does not believe that matter is inert, acted upon by an outside force, but that every atom possesses a certain amount of "primitive intelligence." It is impossible otherwise, he maintains, to account for the thousand ways in which atoms of hydrogen combine with other elements, forming the most diverse substances, and finally producing man, "who represents the total intelligence of all the atoms." As to the original source of this intelligence he holds that it must be some power greater than ourselves—an intelligent Creator, a personal God. "The existence of such a God can, to my mind, almost be proved from chemistry," he declares. This is the view of a practical scientist, and Colonel Ingersoll would do well to consider it carefully.—[Globe-Democrat.

NATIONAL TOPICS.

Misdirected Federal Authority in Florida.

CRIMES RESULTING THEREFROM.

A Railway President Favors Governmental Control of the Railroads.

Associated Press Dispatches to the HERALD.

WASHINGTON, February 20.—There was a warm debate in the Senate today over Chandler's resolution calling on the Attorney General for information as to the killing of Deputy Marshal Saunders in Florida. Pasco, of Florida, made an address. He had read newspaper comments and documents denunciatory of the conduct and character of the Federal Court of the Northern District of Florida, and its officers. These representations, he said, might throw some light on the causes leading up to the killing. He offered an amendment directing the Attorney General to inform the Senate whether any effort had been made to correct the action of the officers of the court, which resulted in partisan juries, etc.

Hawley followed, speaking warmly. He resented Pasco's reference to Deputy Saunders as not a good man, as giving the inference that there would not have been much objection to the killing if it could have been done in a less objectionable way. He wished Pasco to understand distinctly that his speech was regarded by the Republican Senators as an attempt to make a sort of left-handed apology for the murder and evade an investigation.

Call spoke of outrages committed by Federal officers in Florida, and said it was such that led misguided men to resort to lawless acts. The Senator from New Hampshire (Chandler) was responsible for murders in Florida and the destruction of the happiness of households there by emissaries of his.

Chandler said many indictments had been found in Florida, and attempts had been made to arrest and try the offenders. The Democrats of Florida, as a body, in the section of the State where these election frauds were committed, were engaged in the defense of those criminals, by killing witnesses and Deputy Marshals, and there was in that section of the State an absolute rebellion against and defiance of the laws of the United States.

Continuing his remarks, Chandler said the Governor of Florida and the Senators of that State, instead of trying to secure the arrest and punishment of the criminals, are here trying to prevent the confirmation of the Judge, District Attorney and Marshal whose business it is to punish election frauds in the State of Florida, if they can do so by lawful means.

Pasco's amendment was laid on the table and Chandler's resolution was agreed to.

A NATIONALIST IDEA.

A Railway President Wants the Government to Own the Roads.

CHICAGO, February 20.—President Blackstone, of the Alton road, today issued the annual report of the operations of that company, and also treating at great length the subject of legislation. He asserts that all railroad property has been greatly oppressed by State and Government legislation. He says: "We should not complain unless prepared to suggest a remedy," and goes on to outline a suggestion that the United States shall acquire the ownership of the railroads now used in interstate traffic, such railroads to be acquired by the exercise of the right of eminent domain or purchase. For the purchase he suggests the issue of Government bonds bearing three per cent., redeemed by the annual application of a sinking fund equal in amount to one per cent. of the bonds issued. The annual interest and sinking fund will be paid from the net earnings of the roads and rates reduced from year to year to provide no more money than is needed for the payments. Other details are elaborated at length. Among them is a proposal that the Government roads and the making of rates be vested in a National Board of Railway Directors, and that employees, after one year's service, shall not be subject to discharge without cause and proper investigation.

To Further Restrict Lotteries.

WASHINGTON, February 20.—Senator Sawyer introduced a bill today amending certain sections of the Revised Statutes regarding lotteries, providing that no letter or circular concerning the advertisement of lotteries shall be sent through the mails. It provides penalties, and authorizes the Postmaster-General to instruct postmasters to return registered letters sent in answer to such advertisements to the persons who mailed them, with the word "Fraud" stamped on the outside.

Bond Purchases Stopped.

WASHINGTON, February 20 —No more four per cent. bonds will be purchased by the Treasury Department till further notice. The total amount purchased on this account is about $12,000,000, of which $7,000,000 was surrendered under the first call for a reduction of the funds of the 80 banks included in the second class. A favorable response has been received from sixty-five, which surrendered over $5,000,000 in Government bonds, thirty-two going out of the system altogether.

The Reading Ranch Litigation.

NEW YORK, February 20. — Fannie Reading claims that in 1871 she agreed to give James B. Haggin her right in the Reading ranch on the Sacramento river, 2,000 acres, if he purchased the mortgage and indebtedness left by her husband, and upon selling the estate to give her a third of the proceeds. She holds that he rendered a meager accounting, and sues for a complete one. Judge Ingraham gave judgment for her, overruling the demurrer of Haggin. The latter, however, was given leave to answer.

Smith Wants to Fight Kilrain.

DENVER, February 20 —Ed Smith, the champion pugilist of Colorado and a prominent candidate for first honors among sporting men, issued a challenge to Jake Kilrain to spar fifteen rounds, Marquis of Queensberry rules, for a purse of $1,000 to $2,000, the match to be for points and to come off within eight weeks in this city; or, if Kilrain prefers, he will fight him to a finish.

QUEENSTOWN, February 20. — The steamer Germanic, from New York, has arrived.

FIVE DRESS NOTES FOR WOMEN.

The Dude Costume—Green the Popular Color for Spring.

The smart girl who likes to create a sensation, says the New York Sun, may imitate her English sister and appear at the first fancy dance to which she goes the "Dude." The costume consists of a very finely plaited skirt of black diagonal cloth that reaches half way between the knee and ankle. There is an exposing expanse of pique shirt bosom, over which a low-cut waistcoat of white brocade is buttoned. A directoire coat of black satin, with long narrow coat tails, wide revers, and deep cuffs, properly decorated with cut steel buttons is then assumed. The collar is very high, and a stock of white lawn is worn. Black silk hose and patent leather shoes, with paste buckles dress the feet, while the hands are hidden under black undressed kid. A stick of natural wood with some fancy and exaggerated handle is carried, and the monocle is worn in a way that would delight the heart of a variety actress, and is swagger enough to suit the most inveterate johnny.

Whether the chemise is in fashion or not, Mrs. Langtry wears one. And certainly hers don't make her bodice fit badly, for if ever there was a woman whose clothes did fit as if she were melted and poured into them she was the happy creature. Her chemises were of the finest lawn in rose, mauve or blue, with tiny white spots upon them; the neck was shaped to fit her shoulders, and an elaborate lace yoke set in. High upon one side were the interlaced L. L.'s and the three plumes, or the fleur de lis, which she has claimed for her own. In length these would be the delight of one's grandmother, for they reach almost to the ankle, and the edge is finished with a simple hemstitching.

If you have dark hair, do not let anybody persuade you into wearing it in a full heavy bang; leave that to the unfortunate blondes, who, according to statistics, do not marry. Instead, if you possibly can, have your hair parted and brushed back with just one or two soft locks curled a little. Frizzly black hair is as bad form as that which gains its sunshine from peroxide of hydrogen. You want your black hair to shine like your diamonds. In your heart of hearts you ought to be satisfied with it, for fickle Monsieur Worth says that nothing delights his soul so much as to make a gown for a dark-haired woman. There is no earthly use in a blonde trying to turn her locks to auburn. This color is only produced by using the peroxide on dark hair, and even then great care has to be taken that too much is not used, else it will be lighter than the Titian red desired.

Green will be the color of the spring, and as our artistic tastes have improved, we realize that there is only one shade besides golden brown that is absolutely adapted to it, and that is violet; if you doubt it, just look at a bunch of violets surrounded by the leaves. It is a historic combination, for when Petrarch first saw Laura, as she was coming out of church, she wore a gown of green velvet looped with bunches of violets. Pink and yellow, the combination Felix so likes for evening gowns, was used by the royal lover Louis when he presented his first bouquet to Louise La Vailliere; it was of pink and yellow rosebuds tied with long ribbons of pink and yellow satin. At one time, when the Orangemen had no respect even for the caprices of a woman, and wanted one, a good Catholic, to assume the orange knot, she defeated them by saying that not only would she wear a ribbon of orange, but it should form a part of the costume, so she appeared in a gown of black and orange. To this they could say nothing, and yet she was wearing the color of the Papal guard, of the most Catholic of gentlemen, Lord Baltimore, and of the Dublin university. The wit of one woman amounted to more than all the rancorous feeling of a regiment of Orangemen.

The woman who finds that the lacing in the back of her corsets will show through her bodice finds the remedy in choosing another lace; the chances are that she has a round cord, or else somebody has convinced her that a rubber lace is desirable. What she wants to do is to pay 50 cents for a long flat silk lace which will outwear any of the others, and will never announce its existence except by being easy to pull when she wishes to tighten her stays.

RIDDLEBERGER'S EPITAPH.

And the Amusing Circumstances Under Which he Composed It.

"So poor Riddleberger is dead," said the proprietor of a famous Washington restaurant where the Virginian readjuster often ate his steamed oysters. "Well, he was the wisest man in one respect," added the oysterman, "that I ever knew."

"How was that?"

"He came in here one night with a friend and ordered a 'peck.' Both were flushed and jolly, and they kept up a fusillade of jokes on everything in sight.

"Finally the oysters came. The colored boy set them down in style and they looked fine. The sliced cabbage was fresh, the pickles were prime, and I was then using fifty-cent butter made by a Pennsylvania Quaker down near Mount Vernon.

"There was a big chunk of the sweetest butter you ever saw, as yellow as a dandelion, on Riddleberger's oysters. His eyes snapped as intelligently as if he were sober, and in half a second he had his pistol at that darky's nose.

"Oh, it was funny. That boy turned green with fright, and Riddleberger tottered to his feet and began a speech, the pistol in his hand. 'You d—d ornery nigger you! To put butter on my steamed oysters! You ought to go down to Danville and be shot in Johnnie Wise's kitchen!'

"He talked away for twenty minutes, handling that pistol in a fearfully careless manner, the darky boy trembling and bulging out his eyes. By and by, Riddleberger cooled down and quit. He closed with an appeal to the colored race to spare such an exquisitely delicate and toothsome thing as the poor defenseless, innocent oyster from the brutality of melted butter.

"The last thing he said was: 'When I die I want it engraved on my tombstone:

'HERE LIES A MAN WHO ABHORRED BUTTER ON HIS OYSTERS.'

"Then I gave the Senator a beautiful dish without butter, keeping another customer, for whom it was steamed, waiting until he was mad. The poor darky I sent down stairs to sit down and recover gradually, giving him the offending buttered oysters as consolation."—[N. Y. Sun.

TO SETTLERS ON LANDS IN ANTELOPE VALLEY.

TO CERTAIN SETTLERS WHO ARE occupying or propose to occupy lands owned by me in Antelope Valley, I desire to say:

First—That these lands are on earned grants to the railroad, and the title is unquestionably good.

Second—That their time and labor will be wasted.

Third—That I shall immediately bring suit against any who have or may hereafter settle upon such lands.

Fourth—That United States patents will soon be issued for such lands to the railroad, and are only awaiting the order of business in the department.

Fifth—These lands will be placed on the market on June 1st of this year, giving those who choose a chance to acquire an undisputed title. E. P. BEALE.

MICHAEL WHALING.

He is Arrested for Disturbing a Public School.

Yesterday afternoon, Michael Whaling, representative of the Eighth ward in the Board of Education, was arrested by Deputy Constable H. C. Vignes upon a warrant charging him with having, on Friday last, disturbed the peace. He was taken before Justice Lockwood for arraignment, and the complaint read to him as follows:

"Cordelia P. Bradfield, of Los Angeles City, in the county of Los Angeles, being first duly sworn, deposes and says: That on February 14th Mike Whaling did unlawfully and willfully then and there disturb a certain public school at and near Fifth and Spring streets, in the city of Los Angeles, county of Los Angeles, State of California, and commonly called and known as the Fifth-street school, by making loud and unusual noises and by tumultuous, offensive, threatening and insulting conduct and language."

He entered his plea of not guilty to the charge, and consented to the setting of his case for trial on Saturday, March 1st, at 2 o'clock p. m., whereupon he was released upon his own recognizance to appear at that time.

The charge preferred by Mrs. C. P. Bradfield, is somewhat similar to that brought to the attention of the Board of Education at its last meeting. The document received by the board and which was referred to the teachers' committee without being read, was signed by Mrs. C. P. Bradfield and Misses E. J. Gibson, A. S. Henry, Eleanor M. Joy, Fannie P. Wright, Cecilia Auld, E. Bengaugh and N. T. W. Pond, all of whom will be subpœned as witnessess in the criminal action against the erratic school director.

In connection with the charges now in the hands of the teachers' committee of the Board of Education Mr. Whaling yesterday indited a communication to President A. E. Pomeroy, of which the following is a copy:

CITY OF LOS ANGELES, February 19, '90.

A. E. Pomeroy:

DEAR SIR—Inasmuch as you are the presiding and principal executive officer of the Board of Education, I desire to to say to you that although that matter of investigation of those charges against me was referred to the teachers' committee, yet it seems to me that the investigation should be made by the entire board, or a majority thereof, and as such a course is plainly indicated by the law upon the subject. And I would respectfully suggest that you call a meeting of the board at an early day for this special purpose. Please submit the matter to the chairman of the committee to whom it was referred, and oblige

Yours very respectfully,
M. WHALING,
Member of the Board of Education.

P. S.—You owe it to yourself as well as to the public and myself to act promptly in this matter. You permitted this matter to be brought before the board and made public, and now I demand an immediate investigation by the board. No funny business about this. An immediate investigation will alone satisfy the public and myself. M. W.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

The Board of Directors Consider Several Matters.

The Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce met yesterday afternoon at 3:30. The principal matter under discussion was the question of new quarters for the chamber. This matter was some time ago placed in the hands of a special committee, consisting of the president and secretary of the chamber and the ways and means committee. The board decided to recommend to this committee the acceptance of the proposition to rent Mott hall, together with the rooms in the front part of the building, for $150 a month, provided that the property-owners of that vicinity could be induced to subscribe $50 a month toward the rental. The secretary and treasurer of the chamber were authorized to sign the lease without personal liability to themselves.

On this question of the liability of those who signed the lease there was a long discussion, and the matter of the incorporation of the chamber, which had been brought up at the regular meeting last Wednesday, was treated to consideration. There was some opposition displayed to the idea of incorporating, and action was finally indefinitely postponed.

There was some debate on the matter of asking for an appropriation for Redondo harbor. It was the general opinion of the directors that the chamber had best for the present concentrate its efforts on the improvement of San Pedro, and no action was taken.

The question of a special silver convention was also treated to some debate, the subject coming up on the reading of Judge Bethune's resolution, offered at the last meeting of the chamber. No action was taken.

A special meeting of the committee on new quarters for the chamber was called to meet this afternoon at 3:15.

The board then adjourned.

REDONDO BEACH.

A Gala Time on Washington's Birthday.

If it is true that "money makes the mare go," then the mare is going fast at Redondo. During the past year the Redondo Beach Company and the Redondo Hotel and Railway Company have expended more than a million dollars to beautify and make accessible that delightful seaside. A magnificent hotel, now nearly completed, has been built, new docks built and old ones extended so ships of a thousand tons now lie safely beside them to receive and discharge cargoes; railroads have been projected and built and old ones purchased and renewed; car houses erected and the line equipped with the finest of rolling stock. Nothing has been left undone by the companies which could lend attraction to one of the most attractive resorts on the Coast.

Seeing that Redondo was certain to become a focus of attraction, the Chautauqua Association of Southern California determined to establish one of its assemblies there, and to do this a building must be erected for the use of its assembled students and teachers. Under the guidance and push of Rev. S. J. Fleming, that building is so near completion that it will be dedicated on the 22d, so weaving the celebration of Washington's birth and of the local Chautauqua Assembly into one chaplet. Redondo has many attractions, and Saturday will increase the fascinating list. The Santa Fe will increase its regular trains for the day.

A good appetite is essential to good health and loss of appetite indicates something wrong. Hood's Sarsaparilla creates and sharpens the appetite, assists the digestive organs and regulates the kidneys and liver. Take Hood's Sarsaparilla this season. Sold by druggists.

PUBLIC WORKS.

Several Matters Investigated Yesterday Afternoon.

The Board of Public Works yesterday afternoon looked into several matters brought before it by property-owners. The first place visited was the Capitol mills, the proprietors of which desire a storm drain to carry off the water, which they allege threaten to flood the mills. It was stated that the proposed storm drain was to be constructed with the money to be raised by the sale of bonds, if they are voted. It was informally decided to refer the matter to the City Engineer.

Aliso street across the river was visited. Here the property-owners desire the old name, Pleasant avenue, to be restored, and the matter will be referred to the City Engineer to prepare an ordinance changing the name.

The vicinity of Evergreen cemetery was next visited. Alexander Dallas desires to be given the gravel for grading the street. The matter will probably be referred to the Street Superintendent.

There are a number of obstructions on the sidewalk on San Pedro street, between Fifth and Sixth, in the shape of telegraph and telephone poles, and the citizens desire them removed. It is probable the matter will be referred to the Street Superintendent.

The Ransome Home.

EDITORS HERALD—Realizing that Los Angeles contains many homeless women, through the subtle powers of those who understand tempting the unfortunate and unsophisticated into forbidden ways, the W. C. T. U. has adopted the Ransome Home organized over a year ago, by the Social Purity League.

The Union desires through this home, to provide a refuge for tempted or erring women, who wish to be saved from evil or can be induced to forsake a life of sin, also for friendless women until some honest employment can be procured for them.

Means will be required for this work, but the ladies of the Union have assumed the responsibility, trusting to a generous and sympathetic public to assist them in this laudable object. The demand for such a home is imperative, and the divine command to those who have been sheltered and saved from the terrible temptations and evils which beset thousands of our women enjoins them to seek and to save the lost, and to help the tempted and sorely tried.

The home is situated on Temple and Bonnie Brae streets, and is provided with an efficient matron in Mrs. Dr. Beach, and has already several inmates.

Mrs. Strohm, No. 19 West Hill street, will gratefully receive any contributions and give all necessary information.

For admission to the home apply to Mrs. Garbutt, or Mrs. Marco, Temperance temple. ONE OF THE LADIES.

Illinois Social.

The Illinois Association will offer an exceptionally bright and attractive entertainment this evening at Illinois hall. The first part of the programme will comprise a few instrumental and vocal selections by the Wilson family orchestra, Mrs. Scholes, and others; and a recitation by Grace Hersee, followed by scenes from Macbeth, with appropriate costumes, etc., under the direction of Mrs. C. A. Cary, and with the following cast of characters: "Lady Macbeth," Mrs. C. A. Cary; "Macbeth," Mrs. Henry Harrison; "First Witch," Miss Millie Tarbel; "Second Witch," Miss Susie Harrison; "Third Witch," Miss Blanche Bradshaw; "Page," Miss Grace Hersee.

After the social the balance of the evening will be devoted to a series of shadow pantomine.

THE RAYMOND, EAST PASADENA

Among the Orange Groves of the beautiful San Gabriel Valley, eight miles from Los Angeles,

C. H. MERRILL, Manager (during the summer season manager of the Crawford House, White Mountains, N. H.)

If you cannot go out to The Raymond and spend a day, a week, a month, or the whole season, then go out and stay a few hours. It is well worth your while to see the magnificent view from its piazzas; and that view alone will well repay you, although there are many other interesting features—especially the grand display of flowers in the hotel grounds, which are now under the charge of Mr. C. H Hovey, the celebrated landscape gardener, formerly of Hovey's Nurseries, Cambridge, Mass. Tourists visiting Los Angeles shou'd make a trip to The Raymond, even if their stay there must necessarily be brief. There are frequent trains between Los Angeles and The Raymond by several lines of railroad. The orchestra consists of four soloists, who render the choicest of music twice each day.

A very complete livery is connected with the hotel, and it is an excellent starting-point for a drive through the San Gabriel valley, in which are situated the San Gabriel Mission church, Rose's winery, Lucky Baldwin's stock farm, the Sierra Madre Villa, and many other places of interest.

Full particulars regarding board and other matters can be obtained by addressing C. H. Merrill, Manager of The Raymond, East Pasadena, California.

Fine Boots and Shoes at a Great Reduction.

If you have not bought your shoes yet step into the store of Gibson & Tyler, 150 North Spring street, and look over their elegant stock. The firm came to the conclusion some time ago, to put down their goods to bedrock prices and the result has been very satisfactory. CATARRH,

Successfully treated by

M. HILTON WILLIAMS, M.D.

M. C. P. S. O.,

(Graduate Medical Department Victoria College, Ontario, Canada, in 1867; member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario, Canada, since 1882,)

BY HIS

MEDICATED INHALATIONS

AND

COMPOUND OXYGEN TREATMENT.

It is now conceded by all scientific investigators, both of this country and Europe, that diseases of the respiratory organs are germ diseases; that they originate from living germs or parasites, which live and feed upon diseased tissue, millions of which are found to exist in a single case, and yet so small as to be seen only under the most powerful microscope. Now, if this be true, what can more readily kill and destroy these germs than our compound oxygen and other medicated inhalations? These redemies antagonize and completely remove every poison of the system from the blood, hence are efficacious in curing Catarrh, Throat Diseases, Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Nervous Prostration, Insomnia and Dyspepsia, etc., etc.

In all cases of Catarrh and other diseases of the Respiratory Organs, where the system suffers from the deleterious effects of scrofula or other vitiated condition of the blood local treatment is invariably conjoined with constitutional remedies.

Persons desiring treatment by this system of practice can use the remedies at home as well as at our office, and which will cause no inconvenience or hindrance to business whatever.

The very best of references from those already cured.

Those who desire to consult me in regard to their cases had better call at the office for an examination, but if impossible to visit the office personally can write for list of questions and circular, both of which will be sent free of charge. Address
